In 1999, The Detroit Tigers team in its entirety signed a baseball and buried it under the dirt at home plate. This was shown on a 1999 episode of This Week In Baseball and was done in the hopes that one day workers will be able to find the ball when they tear down Comerica Park. Hopefully, that day will not come for a LONG time.