TIGERS FUN FACT

One thing singers and tigers have in common is the need to vocalize. You probably won’t see a tiger in musicals anytime soon, but tigers need to constantly practice their powerful roars to assert dominance and communicate well. Their vocalization routines include chuffing, roaring, hissing, moaning, and growling.

THIS WEEK IN DETROIT TIGERS HISTORY:

On August 24, 2007, because of a rain delay, the Yankees and Tigers began an 11-inning marathon, which took four hours and 24 minutes to complete. The last pitch, which resulted in a three-run walk-off home run hit by Detroit’s shortstop Carlos Guillen, was thrown at 3:30 am.
